

IRWM Planning

Statewide Overview

What is Integrated Regional Water Management?

- IRWM is one of two major initiatives in Update 2009
- IRWM is not just a grant program

“Integrated Regional Water Management (IRWM) is a collaborative effort to manage all aspects of water resources in a region.

IRWM crosses jurisdictional, watershed, and political boundaries; involves multiple agencies, stakeholders, individuals, and groups; and attempts to address the issues and differing perspectives of all the entities involved through mutually beneficial solutions.”

What is IRWM?

Integrated Regional Water Management (IRWM) is a collaborative effort to manage all aspects of water resources in a region. IRWM crosses jurisdictional, watershed, and political boundaries; involves multiple agencies, stakeholders, individuals, and groups; and attempts to address the issues and differing perspectives of all the entities involved through mutually beneficial solutions.

DWR's IRWM Grant Program

DWR has a number of IRWM grant program funding opportunities. Current IRWM grant programs include: planning, implementation, and stormwater flood management. Links to these programs and other IRWM grant funding information can be found on the menu bar to the left while the latest IRWM news items (provided as "quick links") are referenced to the right.

DWR's IRWM Grant Programs are managed within DWR's Division of IRWM by the Financial Assistance Branch with assistance from the Regional Planning Branch and regional offices. Financial Assistance Branch contact information is provided on the menu to the left.

IRWM Grant Program Milestones

2002 - Senate Bill 1672 creates the Integrated Regional Water Management Act to encourage local agencies to work cooperatively to manage local and imported water supplies to improve the quality, quantity, and reliability.

November 2002 - California voters pass Proposition 50, the Water Security, Clean Drinking Water, Coastal and Beach Protection Act of 2002, which provides $500,000,000 (CWC $79560-79565) to fund competitive grants for projects consistent with an adopted IRWM plan.

November 2006 - California voters pass Proposition 84, the Safe Drinking Water, Water Quality, and Supply, Flood Control, River and Coastal Protection Bond Act, which provides $1,000,000,000 (PRC $75001-75130) for IRWM Planning and Implementation.

November 2006 - California voters pass Proposition 1E, the Disaster Preparedness and Flood Prevention Bond Act, which provides $300,000,000 (PRC $5096.800-5096.967) for IRWM Stormwater Flood Management.

Feedback from IRWM Conference

- IRWM has improved regional planning and has facilitated collaboration across boundaries
- IRWM provides for a common voice in sharing and protecting water resources
- IRWM will help California deal with future water-resource challenges (e.g., climate change and extended droughts)
- There seems to be a disconnect between flood management and water supply in California
- We need to better coordinate and integrate with other planning efforts, e.g., land use plans, water master plans, capital improvement plans
- What happens to IRWM if/when state money goes away?

STRATEGIC PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE OF IRWM

Director Cowin...

“With the assistance of DWR, IRWM has been successfully implemented by many regional groups in the state, but there is still work to be done.

The Strategic Plan for the Future of IRWM in California is critical for ensuring the continued advancement of sustainable water resources management.

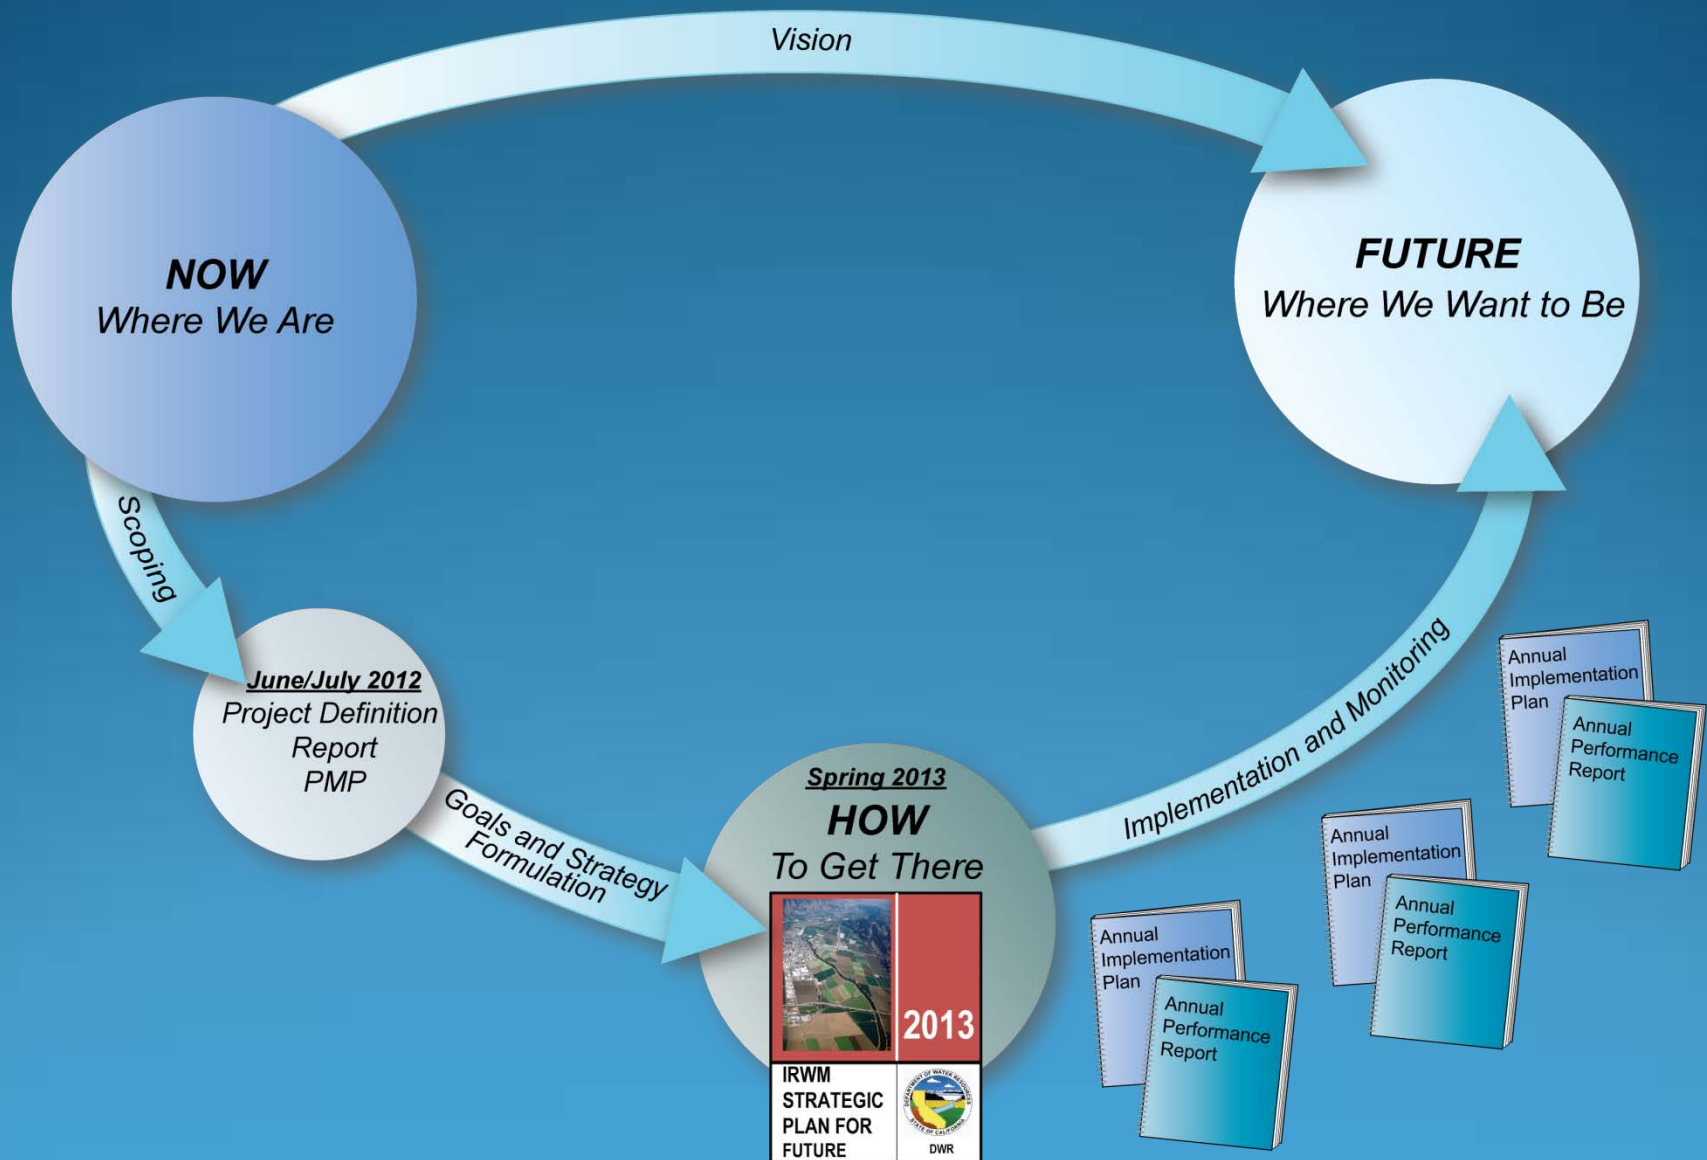

The development of the strategic plan is a top priority for DWR”

“Local governments, agencies, and stakeholders have the best understanding of their water management challenges.

The most creative and efficient solutions are found when these groups work together on a regional basis...”

THE BIG PICTURE STRATEGIC PLANNING PROCESS

STRATEGIC PLANS PATTERN

- All plans are variations/combinations of the following strategic plan process elements

Sample Vision

California embraces and practices Integrated Regional Water Management (IRWM) as the best way to manage water and aligns related programs, policies, and regulations to promote IRWM.

IRWM Video Survey

- 107 responses to February 27 – March 9 online survey (95 considered the idea of short videos as a useful outreach tool; 12 did not)
- Most respondents who liked the idea said they would likely use the videos as an advocacy tool with local officials and would post the videos to their IRWM website.
- Most respondents thought that DACs and Native American tribes should be included in the videos by writing and presenting their script in an interview as part of the case studies video.

Please rate the proposed video topics from Very Useful (1) to Not At All Useful (4) for your RWMG. If there are other topics you would like to add, please write them in the last two comment boxes below, as indicated, and include them in the rating.
